

EMJ Publishing Agreement

I understand that by submitting to EMJ a manuscript titled

(to be called "The Work"), I agree to the following, subject to The Work successfully passing peer review and being accepted for publication:

- EMJ will publish The Work under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 licence .
- Each of the Authors agrees to transfer all copyright ownership worldwide in all forms of media, including electronic media, to EMJ.
- The Author(s) confirm that they have adhered to the authorship guidelines as stipulated by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE), including substantial contributions to the conception or design of the work, or the acquisition, analysis, or interpretation of data for The Work.
- The Author(s) can reuse The Work under the terms of the CC BY-NC 4.0 licence without seeking prior permission.
- The Author(s) warrant that The Work is their own original creation, has not been previously published, and does not infringe upon any copyright or other proprietary right of any third party. Any third-party content included in The Work has been appropriately attributed and used with permission as required by the respective copyright holders.
- The Author(s) have disclosed any relevant conflicts of interest by completing a conflict-of-interest form.
- EMJ will publish The Work in its journal without imposing any article processing charges, publication fees, or other financial obligations on the Author(s). The Author(s) acknowledge that this constitutes good and valuable consideration for the rights granted under this Agreement.

Marketing and promotion of The Work

EMJ may run strategic social media campaigns that include The Work including targeted promotion to maximise its visibility and amplify impact metrics.

In order to assist EMJ in the advertising and promotion of The Work, the authors agree to:

- Reshare at least one EMJ social media post on their preferred platform soon after publication (ideally within one week).
- Download, engage with, and share the content with others for personal use, and to acknowledge EMJ as the source of the material.
